Los Angeles County sales-tax rates — Burbank and nearby cities

Official rates from the California Department of Tax and Fee Administration, effective July 1, 2026, shown alongside the rate after Measure ER's voter-approved half-cent countywide increase takes effect in October 2026.

City / area (Los Angeles County)	Sales tax today (effective July 1, 2026)	After Measure ER (effective October 2026)
Burbank	10.50%	11.00%
Glendale	10.50%	11.00%
Pasadena	10.50%	11.00%
Long Beach	10.50%	11.00%
Santa Monica	10.75%	11.25%
Culver City	10.75%	11.25%
Compton	10.75%	11.25%
Los Angeles (city)	9.75%	10.25%
Los Angeles County (unincorporated)	9.75%	10.25%

Burbank: 10.50% today → 11.00% this October.
That is eleven cents of tax on every dollar spent at a Burbank register — among the highest sales-tax rates anywhere in the United States.

California's statewide base sales-tax rate is 7.25%; everything above it is county and city add-ons. Measure ER raises the Los Angeles County general sales tax by 0.50% (half a cent per dollar), which was approved by voters in June 2026 and takes effect in October 2026. It applies on top of every city rate in the county, so each rate above rises by the same half-cent.
